

LEARNING DISABILITIES

what we are tired of hearing?

How we can change this?

“ADHD doesn’t exist”

“Learning disabilities are a sign of low intelligence”

“You’re just not trying hard enough”

“ You have an advantage with your accomodations”

“Learning disaabilities only effect the academic aspect of life .”

“ Do you have adderall ”

Learning Disabilities don't mean you can't learn, they just mean an individual learns differently. They can affect speech, writing, computing math, reasoning, memory and social skills.

Accomodations are a form of leveling the plainfield since we all learn at different rates. 15-20% of Americans have an LD. When discussing stereotypes of learning disabilities, please be aware one of your/peers or co-workers may have an LD

This brochure was made by a postsecondary student with a learning disability as part of the CS³LD project. This material is based upon work supported by the National Science Foundation under Grant No. HRD-1246587. Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this material are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily reflect the views of the National Science Foundation.

